

On-Site Expert Troubleshooting

We are not here to backslap, shake hands or mince words.

We are here to help you big and help you fast with our widely used, proven, copyrighted methods and techniques.

We visit your facility with a single-minded focus on the elimination of your specific board defects.

We work directly with individual managers and engineers designated by you, on a one-on-one basis, to punch through your current barriers, cure your defects, solve your board problems and tell you how to keep it that way. This means direct benefits to your process, staff knowledge, costs, board quality, throughput and documentation.

Our approach to board quality problems and throughput inefficiencies is innovative and high impact, encompassing your process, equipment, chemistry, materials and design.

When your issues have been addressed, you will be provided with clear, simple procedures to prevent their recurrence, including how to document your progress and take maximum advantage of easy daily procedures. This is expert troubleshooting different than any you have ever experienced, quickly improving your specific wave soldering challenges.

Schedule now to reserve the earliest date that is best for you.
